

ABSTRACT

A method of tracing process printing fluids is described and claimed. The process
5 printing fluids are selected from the group consisting of One-Component Fountain Solutions, Two-Component Fountain Solutions and Web Release Agents. The tracer used is capable of being detected fluorometrically in each process printing fluid of interest.